MEDIEVAL ENGLISH THEATRE

Style Sheet: Some Guidelines

Do not try to imitate the METh format: that will be done globally by the copy editor. It will however be helpful (and time-saving) if you follow these guidelines.

Text Layout

At head of article: TITLE

Subtitle [not essential]

author

At end of article: Place of writing

Thanks and acknowledgements: add at end of article, after place of writing, but before any notes on that page. (Do not attach to a footnote depending from title.)

Quotations: in single inverted commas (quotation marks): 'xxxxx'.
Quotations within quotations: double inverted commas: 'xxxx "xxxxxxx" xxxx'.

For quotations in foreign-languages, use italics, without inverted commas.

Quotation marks should follow British, not US style (i.e. should go outside the full stop in any quotation that is itself a full sentence, but otherwise inside punctuation).

Any quotation, prose or verse, longer than two lines: separate inset paragraph block with no quotation marks (except for internal quotations).

For the first quotation from any work, add a full footnote reference to identify the source.

Translations*: For quotations in any language except for English (including Latin and French): provide an English translation.

For translations in a separate paragraph block: use single inverted commas (quotation marks).

> Justitiam hominum nemo nescit esse sub lege, ut secundum ejus quantitatem, mensura retributionis a Deo recompensetur.
> 'Everyone knows that the justice of men is under the law, so that according to its degree, a measure of retribution should be awarded by God.'

For translations in text: set in brackets and single inverted commas.

> Ego sum via, veritas, vita ('I am the way, the truth, and the life': John 14: 6)

Abbreviations*: Expanded abbreviations should be marked:

In foreign-language quotations, underline.

> Deliuerande Sunt Sedule Paginarum subsequenter in forma . subscripta . Artificiis Per vj. Seruientes Maioris ad clauam prima vel ij^{a} septimana xl^{ma} Annuatim scribende per Communem Clericum

In English, in italics.

> In moost humble wise besecheth your highnes your true and faithfull *ser*uaunte John Blake oon of your Trompeto*ur*s That where as his wages nowe and as yet is not sufficient to maynteigne and kepe hym to doo your grace lyke *ser*uice as other your Trompeto*ur*s doo ...

Editorial additions, emendations, or glosses: in square brackets and italics.

> That there is a national as well as a personal respect cannot be deny'd, and [some] colours rather than other are vulgarly [popularly] appropriated to special vses, as symbolical to them ...

In-text references

Titles: accepted titles of books, plays, freestanding poems, works of art: italics.
Titles of chapters or poems within a larger collection: in 'inverted commas'.

Line references: within text: in brackets for lines quoted in separate paragraph blocks, no brackets.

Dates: as 4 March 1492.

Footnote numbers: place after punctuation — fullstops, semicolons, commas etc.

Use the Oxford comma in lists: Faith, Hope, and Charity.

References

Abbreviations:

In general, use no abbreviations in references except for: fol./fols for 'folio/s'; r/v for 'recto' and 'verso'; sd for 'stage direction';

No ff.: give entire page or line span.
No op.cit.: give short title (see below).
No ibid.: give short title (see below).

However, the following are used for works commonly cited:
REED for Records of Early English Drama; METh for Medieval English Theatre; EETS for Early English Text Society; EDAM for Early Drama, Art and Music; PL for Patrologia Latina; OED for Oxford English Dictionary; MED for Middle English Dictionary.

Plays:

'Cycle' Play (i.e. plays in a large civic compendium): Give the names of collections as 'the York Plays', 'the Chester Plays', 'the N.Town Plays', 'the Towneley Plays'.
For references: title of collection, play number: line numbers.

> Chester Play 16: 303–4

Individual plays (pageants) in cycles/play collections should be cited in italics, thus: the York Resurrection, the N.Town Abraham and Isaac.

Printed plays
Title (italics) Act number (italics): scene, lines.

> Twelfth Night 2: 3, 33–47.

Biblical quotations:
as:

> John: 1:14

When discussing works from before the Reformation, use the Vulgate Latin Bible and the Douai/Rheims translation, unless there is a specific reason not to.

Numbers: for printed books, all the numbers in titles and series should be given in Arabic, not Roman.

> Nadia T. van Pelt 'John Blanke's Hat in the Westminster Tournament Roll' Notes & Queries 68: 4 (2021) 387–9.
> Magnyfycence: A Moral Play edited R.L. Ramsay EETS ES 98 (1908 for 1906).

Folio numbers thus: fol. 67v. Signature numbers thus: sig. G8v.

However, for early printed books which have folio and sig. numbers in lowercase Roman, spell out verso and recto in full.

> The Byble in Englyshe that is to saye the content of all the holy scrypture, both of ye olde and newe testament (London: Rychard Grafton [and] Edward Whitchurch, 1539) fol. lxiii verso.
> Andrew Boorde, The Fyrst Boke of the Introduction of Knowledge (London: William Copland, [1550(?)]) sig. G[iij] recto.

Column numbers*: check for these. They can turn up more often than you think.

> Gregorius Magnus Opera Omnia: PL 78 (1849) cols 725–850, at cols 766–7.

Footnote reference layout

METh footnote style differs from most standard schemes. It aims to make the font do as much of the work as possible and dispense with excessive commas.

Publishers

University Presses which operate out of the towns or cities which are also the name of the university are compressed thus: Cambridge UP, Manchester UP, Edinburgh UP. But be careful to check for place, as it is not always as expected: e.g. New Haven: Yale UP.

On-line resources

Author of article 'Title of article' in electronic book, resource or website (italics) at <www.URL>

Give as precise a URL to your reference or quotation as possible, not just the general one for the whole resource. Put angle brackets round <URL>. Make sure that you have the URL of the actual document, not the search engine's finding URL. If the work is also available in hard copy, give a reference to this as well.

> 'Edward IV: November 1461' in Parliament Rolls of Medieval England edited Chris Given-Wilson, Paul Brand, Seymour Phillips, Mark Ormrod, Geoffrey Martin, Anne Curry, Rosemary Horrox (Woodbridge: Boydell and Brewer, 2005). Images: Painting, photograph or other artefact:

Artist: Title of image or artefact (italics) (date) (in brackets) repository (museum, library, or gallery etc), accession or inventory number (if necessary). It is helpful, where possible, to give a URL to point the reader to an image online, unless you are reproducing it in the article.

> Lucas Cranach the Elder: Margrave Kasimir von Brandenburg-Kulmbach (1522) Germanisches Nationalmuseum Nuremberg. Online at <https://objektkatalog.gnm.de/objekt/Gm215>.

If you wish to reproduce images in your article, please consult the editors for advice on permissions, captions etc.

Dictionary entries

> Oxford English Dictionary [but cite this as OED] sv homely adj. 1, 2.

Second and subsequent references

If a work is referred to more than once in the notes, on second and subsequent citations give only Author surname and abbreviated title, provided that the reference is near enough to the first for the reader to find it without trouble. If not, either give the full reference again, or the abbreviated version with a reference to the original footnote number, whichever is the shorter.
